July 19th 2009: THE SIXTEENTH SUNDAY OF ORDINARY TIME

The Provost writes:

“FOR HE IS OUR PEACE”.

These days from mid-July and through the month of August are, for many of us, the time of year when we seek to go on holiday. It is an opportunity, whether with our family or with friends, to take some time to be away from the daily round of work and school and find for ourselves often much needed rest and recreation. For many, with the effects of the recession being felt, this year's holidays may well be spent nearer home (the Americans have a word for this: it's a “staycation”!) but even this should still be a valuable time.

Rest for our bodies should bring with it rest and recreation for our souls as well. We need both so that we might be restored to both physical and spiritual vitality, in order that we might better fulfill the tasks God has given us. We find echoes of all this in this Sunday's Gospel: “You must come away....and rest for a while” Our Lord tells the apostles. His disciples were overworked, tired, hungry – they needed to recuperate for a while. Even so, when they reached the place Our Lord thought would be deserted, the people had got there before Him and so He had to continue “to teach them at some length”.

The lessons here for us are many. Firstly, we do not go on holiday to get away from our Saviour: He goes with us, that we might try to draw refreshment from Him. “He is our peace” as St Paul tells us in this Sunday's Second Reading, and we will not find true peace, true happiness, true rest, if we look for these things apart from Him. This is what our own St Philip also taught his followers. It is so easy for us to wander about in ignorance, seeking nourishment for our spirits where none is to be had, until we realise that only the Good Shepherd can give us the compassionate care we really need.

Secondly, we learn from this Gospel that we are never on holiday from our faith. We do not go on holiday in order not to go to Mass, not to say our prayers or to pretend we are not Catholics. Just as on arriving Our Lord felt moved to teach the crowds once more, so when we are away from our usual environs, we might find an opportunity given us to bear witness to Christ to others, or perhaps we might come across someone whom we can help to find peace or direction in their lives. In that sense we are never “on holiday” – we are always ready to do something for our Redeemer and for the sheep He came to save. True compassion is always available – we don't leave it at home while we are away!

BEATIFICATION NEWS:

Several Internet sites this week have already decided the date and place of our Cardinal's Beatification. Suffice to say that this is news to us! The procedures indicate that the Oratory, in conjunction with our Bishops, must present a possible date and place to the Vatican for their approval. As most of the Vatican departments are now in holiday mode, it is not really likely that any decision will be made just yet. When it is, we will let you know straight away!

Some of the greatest interest in the forthcoming Beatification has come, of course, from the Oratories around the world. We have had many congratulatory messages and many Fathers have already indicated that they hope to be present with some of the people from their parishes. It is perhaps appropriate that we have staying with us for a few weeks two members of a prospective Oratory in Cincinnati in the USA. They are called Fr Lawrence and Brother John. Please pray for them and for the success of their venture – and say hello to them should you come across them during their visit!

MISSION APPEAL:

We welcome this weekend Brother Andrew Ferris, of the Sacred Heart Fathers, who will be preaching at all Masses and appealing for your support for his Congregation's missionary work. I am sure you will respond in your usual generous fashion.

PRO-LIFE PETITION to stop secondary schools being used as abortion referral centres. The concerns are: (1) The Government has given a clear remit to school nurses and advisers to refer children for abortions without informing parents; (2) It is insisting that information on obtaining abortions is included in sex education lessons; (3) It wants to establish school-based sexual 'health' clinics in secondary schools. Please sign this very important petition if you have not already done so.
